

Multiple Positions in Bioinformatics

The Li Lab (<https://dllab.org>) is a well-funded new lab focused on genomic sequencing data analyses and pipeline development sponsored by federal agencies, private foundations, state, and the University. The Li Lab is looking for postdoctoral fellows, graduate students, and research assistants with experience in the field. The University is fully committed to supporting trainee's research and career development. Salary is commensurate with experience.

Click each for details:

Postdoctoral Associates

Graduate Students

Bioinformaticians

Undergraduate Students

To apply, please send full CV to: ldllab.bioinformatics@gmail.com (highlight related research experience in first email). The position updates can be seen (<https://dllab.org/positions/positions.pdf>). These positions are open until filled. Interviews start as soon as applications from qualified candidates are received.